Mijailo was an important figure during the Socialist Revolution. From 1910 on he played a role in Russia's development as an industrialised country. After Lenin's leadership the Bolsheviks passed into the other side of the great revolution and Mijailo left it for the opposition. In 1921 he was exiled to Europe. 1) Analysis of the chapter «The role of institutions in the organization of the socialist society». The basis of the analysis of the role of institutions in the socialist society, and also a part of the self-organization of the social society. The chapter analyzes the first and the second systems of state management, including analysis of the way they affected the international level of the productive forces. 2) The chapter presents the analysis of the role of the system of planning. The importance of the system of planning for the socialist society, which allows the successful self-organization of the society and the formation of the socialist system. The system of planning has advantages, and disadvantages. It helps to establish the system of balanced distribution of the national income and the determination of the relative amount of investment in the production of means of production. It also helps to increase productivity and to achieve the desired quality of goods. However, the system of planning does not help to improve the management of production and distribution of the goods, in particular, does not help to solve the problem of controlling the realization of the benefits of the productive development. This is the main problem of the socialist system. The system of planning also has drawbacks. It must be of high quality and dependable. Therefore, its management will require the active participation of the workers. It will be connected with the political organization of work and a high level of political consciousness of the masses, which is a precondition for the effective work of the plan in the interests of the working people. The system of planning should help to improve the level of wages and the standard of living of the working people. It should provide to the lower class of the society, and in particular, the youth the opportunity for the independent development. It should allow to the system of socialist planning to strengthen the level of culture, science and education of the workers and the population in general. It should also give to the system of socialist planning a chance to provide a favorable climate for the development of cooperation, for the development of the scientific and technical progress, the development of international contacts. 3) The chapter analyzes the role of trade unions in the socialist society.
